Paris Styles

By MARY FENTRESS

PARIS, (U.P.)—Accessories have an added importance now that women spend less money on clothes and let one costume do for many occasions with a change of collars and cuffs, a different belt or other accessories. Day-line clothes are more tailored, simpler and less conspicuous than they were a few years ago and are dressed up with bright accessories.

Jewelry adds a great deal to a simple black dress—for daytime wear the bracelets, pins, clips and earrings in gold or silver are smart. Animal motives are popular in Paris now, and turtles, monkeys, dogs, cats, serpents and every sort of animal are seen in modernistic heavy costume jewelry. For evening, pearls are still the popular favorite and great ropes of them are featured on Chanel gowns, while Schiaparelli shows amusing earrings composed of three large loops of pearls which are hung over the entire ear and dangle almost to the shoulder.

Crystal is a favorite with jewelers and often is seen in combination with white or green jade or with lapis lazuli. Interesting clips are shown which snap on the back opening of short, wrist-length gloves; and rhinestone clips in odd shapes are used at either corner of a square-necked gown and a spiral-like ribbon clip of rhinestones is used to catch a draped cowl neck. A heavy round pin of brilliants in an elevated setting brightens the shoulder strap of a simple black satin evening gown.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP
More stress is laid on accessories now that women use the same costume for several occasions by changing accessories. Heavy costume jewelry in gold and silver as well as brilliants is smart.

Miss Alice Robertson, home economist of Norge Corporation, in charge of interesting and instructive two-day sessions.

Friday, at the beautiful new store of the Miller Furniture Company, at 1513 Cabrillo avenue, Torrance. Sessions begin at 2 p. m. and continue to 4 p. m.

Free Prizes
"All women interested in home-making arts are invited to attend," said Mr. Miller, "and as an added attraction a number of food and other prizes will be awarded each afternoon."

Miss Alice Robertson of the Norge Corporation is one of the most popular home economists on the Pacific coast. Her cooking experience extends over a period of many years. She not only knows how to prepare dainty and the more extravagant delicacies, but she knows how to make good, common sense dishes that are what every homemaker is more interested in at the present time.

Meal Planning
Marketing and meal planning—it sounds easy, but it's not. The homemaker's 365-times-a-year job of preparing three meals a day. Menus must be healthful above all, and they must also be palatable. They must be varied, of course, and must be kept within the bounds of a limited income. How best can this big problem be solved? Miss Robertson can and will tell you all about how the Norge Rollator refrigerator plays the most important part in solving this problem.

No matter how old a story cooking (whether hot or cold) is to us, no matter how little zest we think we have for it, we need only to have a new recipe, a new ingredient, or best of all—a "New Method" in cooking held tantalizingly before us to discover that our interest hasn't waned after all. For the quest of the new and better in cookery never loses its allure.

Note:—Bring your note pads and pencils as you will want to jot down many suggestions Miss Robertson offers.
